

2021 JHS UTEC Graduated Scholars

This table includes the status of the JHS scholars who completed their training in May of 2021. Twelve students completed the JHS UTEC Scholars program in May 2021 and graduated from Tougaloo College.

Name	Post Graduate Plans
Destinee Bledsoe	Destinee will attend Boston University and will do the Master's program in medical sciences.
GerMya Bradley	GerMya will be attending Emory University graduate program in biostatistics.
Jaykanze Bryant	Jaykanze will be attending the Accelerated BSN program at the University of Mississippi Medical Center.
Kennadi Johnson	Kennadi will be attending William Carey University School of Pharmacy.
Khiara Lee	Khiara will be attending Brown University School of Public Health in pursuit of her Master's degree in Public Health with a concentration in Maternal & Child Health.
Kingsley Nwaokorie	Kingsley is seeking employment in computer science/health information technology.
Deja' Pegues	Deja' has applied to several medical schools. She will continue shadowing, as she awaits notification to medical school. Her alternate plans are to work as a medical scribe or enroll into a biomedical research program.
Kaitlin Powell	Kaitlin was accepted into the Early Identification Program at Brown University. She will attend The Warren Alpert Medical School of Brown University.
Teryn Railey	Teryn will be attending the University of Georgia in a post baccalaureate research program.
Jendaya Scales	Jendaya will be attending nursing school at the University of Tennessee Health Science Center.
Cedonia Thomas	Cedonia has been accepted into the Brown & Tougaloo College Health Equity Scholars Program. Cedonia will be attending Brown University School of Public Health.
LaShon Webb	LaShon will be attending medical school at the University at Buffalo.
Levell Williams	Levell will be attending Brown University as a Health Equity Scholar and complete the MPH degree.